- Business Owners
- Directors
- Lead or Senior Auditors
- Those Managing Stakeholder Relationships
- HR Professionals
- Planning Managers
- Risk Assessors

Training Methodology

This course uses a variety of adult learning methods to develop a full understanding of the internal governance auditing process. Participants will discover the correct development procedures and auditing requirements to ensure a business adheres to legal requirements and safeguards its employees. They will participate in group exercises and decision tree roadmaps to clearly set out the expectations of a governance audit and identify risk areas within real-world operations.

Summary

Corporate governance is essential within all companies to keep processes on track and help employees complete their roles successfully. Many businesses are also highly regulated, and they cannot complete certain aspects of their operations without first following their governance procedures.

Auditing your governance processes will allow you to stay on track and grow whilst adhering to your legal responsibilities and regulations. You'll also be able to monitor processes and determine risk areas to help make positive changes and apply best practices.

To conduct an accurate audit and move forward, all IT processes, administration procedures, and health and safety guidelines must be clear and monitored. You will also need to review your Corporate Social Reputation (CSR) in the community and as an employer to help you maintain a good reputation in supporting the rights and well-being of your employees.
