- Workshops: Hands-on activities that involve developing change-readiness plans, communication strategies, and coaching scenarios.
- Self-Assessment and Feedback: Participants will assess their own change readiness approach and receive feedback for improvement.

Summary

Change is an inevitable aspect of growth and success in any organisation. However, fostering change readiness within a team or organisation can be challenging. The "Empowering Change Agents: Building Change Readiness in Others" training course is designed to equip leaders, managers, and professionals with the skills to prepare their teams for change, cultivate a mindset of adaptability, and promote resilience in the face of transformation. This course emphasises encouraging others to embrace change proactively rather than resisting it.

Participants will learn the principles of change management, explore strategies for developing change-ready mindsets, and understand how to empower team members to become active contributors to positive change. This includes identifying barriers to change, communicating change effectively, building trust, and creating an environment where feedback and continuous learning are encouraged. The course also covers coaching techniques to help individuals adapt to change, align with new goals, and remain motivated throughout the transition process.

By the end of the training, participants will have the tools to inspire and guide others through change, fostering an open, resilient, and ready-to-tackle future challenges culture. This course is ideal for managers, team leaders, HR professionals, and anyone who leads people through change.
